

American Red Cross Big Factor In Middlesboro's Welfare Work

The American Red Cross, the greatest institution in the world for emergency aid and welfare work, makes its appeal through the medium of the Community Chest committee for support for the coming year.

The Middlesboro Red Cross chapter has played an important part in the welfare work of the city during the time it has been here. The city has been indeed fortunate in having workers here who have done more than the organization required, giving unstintingly of their service and making the funds contributed for the work go as far as possible.

One of the greatest blessings of this organization is the work done in the public schools. Every child in the Middlesboro city schools has the benefit of frequent examinations, proper medical advice and aid and splendid education in hygiene. The value of this service to young children cannot be estimated in dollars and cents since the fruits of it are gathered years hence in the form of sturdy men and women, clean and healthy citizens.

The work of the Red Cross does not cease here, however. The organization embraces the entire city in its relief, searching out and administering aid to all who need the service.

A detailed report of the work done by the Middlesboro Red Cross chapter is printed elsewhere in this issue of the Daily News. All who read this will surely agree that it is worthy of liberal support through the Community Chest.

Miss Bessie Edwards will speak at the Manning theater to-night on the work of the American Red Cross. The public is cordially invited to hear her.

Trouble-makers Have Left Liberty Camp

Nearly all the old element of workers which is reputed to have caused the serious trouble at Straight Creek several weeks ago has left the Liberty Coal camps now and has been replaced by a contented class of miners, according to Burrell Smith, deputy sheriff who is doing guard duty here, reported this afternoon.

Since the definite settlement of the trouble there which resulted in the death of one non-union miner and serious injuries to another, the mines have become prosperous again. One hundred and seventy-five men are employed there now, Deputy Smith who was in Middlesboro today stated, and the mines are running full time. Not the slightest indications of trouble have appeared since he has been policing the camp.

Klutz Former Speaker of North Carolina State Senate

Hon. Whitehead Klutz, former Speaker of the North Carolina Senate and later member of the United States Board of Mediation, is in Middlesboro this week conferring with citizens and civic organizations. Mr. Klutz comes as a national representative of the Playground and Recreation Association of America which for eighteen years has been showing American communities the value of playgrounds.

Mr. Klutz has recently been on a speaking tour of Iowa and Illinois, and comes here directly from Ashland, Ky., where he completed the work preliminary to the establishment of a year-round municipal playground and recreation system there.

The Ashland Independent of May 14 gives a report of an address there by Klutz which it refers to as "a stirring presentation of the need, and benefits of a playground program and continues:

"About 150 members of the body (Chamber of Commerce) including the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs which dispensed with their regular programs for this week to unite in this meeting attended.

"The urgent need of playground and recreation facilities was most impressively presented by Senator Whitehead Klutz of North Carolina. An opportunity for play and recreation, he said, is absolutely essential to attract new industries and new people to the city. He told of the growth of the playground movement in other cities.

"Supervised recreation will pay, he argued; will save lives; will gain health and character for the nation. America is rapidly becoming a nation of spectators and we must get into the game ourselves if we do not expect to deteriorate as other spectators nations have done. He said that the dangers threatening young people of today were largely the result of insufficient outlet for their energies. His address drew prolonged applause and a standing tribute from those present," concludes the Independent.

SUB-COMMITTEES TO SHOW N. Y. TO DEMOCRATS

Convention Delegates to Have Thorough Sight-Seeing

FEW BIG PARTIES

Auto Rides, Visits to Theatres and White-Lights, Seashore
Trips on Program
Planned

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 20.—The citizens' non-partisan committee, which has shouldered the responsibility for entertaining delegates and visitors to the Democratic National Convention, has decided to experiment with the theory that a stranger likes to "learn the ropes" from one of his own kind. Stanley J. Quinn, directing vice-chairman of the committee, has taken charge of the experiment, and has named 51 sub-committees to help him put it to the test.

"We are not going to attempt much mass entertainment," said Mr. Quinn. "We believe smaller parties, whether gotten up for sight-seeing, theatricals, banquets or just plain conviviality, are much more enjoyed by the visitor and far less fatiguing.

"Furthermore, the average visitor to New York doesn't see the most interesting things. He wears himself out looking for the night life, or does a lot of misguided sight-seeing. He doesn't learn a thing about the most interesting phase of New York life, that is, how the New Yorker lives, works and amuses himself."

Thus the 51 sub-committees. Each one is made up of natives of a state or territory who have come to New York and made good. And each will work with the various state societies of "native sons" and the regional clubs, such as the "Rocky Mountain Club."

Each sub-committee or group will be host to delegates, alternates and accredited visitors from its state or section. It will provide automobile transportation, see that the strangers get at least one home-cooked meal a day, make certain they are properly housed; act as their theater guides; direct them to the best of the white-light dance and dine clubs on Broadway; take them on suburban and seashore trips; act as their mentors in visits to the art centers, in fact, as Mr. Quinn said, "make it easy to do the things all visitors would like to do."

There will be, of course, a few mass entertainments. Mayor Hylan and his convention committee will be hosts to all the 2,600 delegates and alternates at a banquet the night before the convention formally opens. The Merchants' Association has arranged for an all-day jubilee at one of the beaches when the big business of the convention is finished.

There will be at least one formal state or group banquet staged by the 51 sub-committees for each of the delegations.

Dr. Brashear Hurt as Car Skids Down Bank

Dr. J. P. Brashear was slightly injured in an automobile accident on the Pineville road at Big Log Mountain last night. He was driving toward Middlesboro when his car, unable to stay on the road on account of the rain, skidded and went down an embankment. He was painfully bruised and sustained an injury in the side though no bones were broken, according to the physician who attended him. He was taken to the Broshear-Brummett hospital after the accident and it is thought he will be out within a few days. His car was badly damaged.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—Charges of heavy campaign expenditures by the Ku Klux Klan to secure the nomination of Senator Mayfield in Texas in 1922, was formally denied on behalf of the Klan today before the special senate committee investigating the contest between Mayfield and George Paddy.

J. E. McQuinn, national auditor of the Klan books, did not show the expenditure of a cent by the Klan, either in the primary or the election, which resulted in the choice of Mayfield. J. A. Jett, of White Path, Ga., another witness, previously told the committee that he was a former employee of the Klan, outlining the conversation between a Klan official and a visitor. Jett asserted that Clark said the Klan could afford to give a $100,000 for propaganda toward the election of a United States Senator, and that Texas seemed to be the only place where they could elect one.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Upon the authority of former Attorney General Daugherty orders given by Jess Smith, his friend and companion, were taken and obeyed by the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, testified today before the Senate Daugherty investigating committee. Bailey said there was no corruption in Smith's request, although there were two or three questions he and Smith could not agree upon. He asserted, however, that "Everybody up there understood that they had to do what Smith told them. If they were like me, they figured they had better take his orders or look for another job."

PRESBYTERIANS TO CONVENE IN GRAND RAPIDS

General Assembly Has Important Matters

Problem Involved Also the Question of Dr.
Fosdick.

GRAND RAPIDS, May 20.—Nearly 1,000 commissioners from every state in the union, officially representing the 299 Presbyteries of the denomination, will attend the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. at Grand Rapids, Mich., beginning May 22 and extending through May 28 or 29. This will be the 136th annual national congress of the denomination, which is sometimes erroneously referred to as the "northern" Presbyterian Church, but which is not in any way northern or sectional.

Outstanding features of the business of the Presbyterian General Assembly will be:
The opening sermon by the retiring Moderator, Dr. Charles Frederick Wishart of Wooster, Ohio, which is expected to sound the keynote for the 10,000 churches of the denomination against divisive forces which have been active in some quarters the past year and in favor of harmony and peace.

The election of a new moderator. He must be chosen from among the commissioners actually registered and sitting.
The disposition of matters vitally related to the doctrine of the church, particularly in connection with the report which the Presbytery of New York will make to the General Assembly by direction of the General Assembly of a year ago. This involves the preaching of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, a Baptist, in the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church of New York City.

The annual report of the four new boards of Foreign Missions, National Missions, Christian Education and Pensions, showing the progress made under the reorganization of the 16 boards and agencies into four.

Progress of plans for a great Presbyterian Center in Washington.
Reports of several interdenominational movements of cooperation and union, including a plan for merging Congregational, Reformed and Presbyterian bodies.

Plans for the reduction of the size of General Assembly.

Dr. W. R. Patterson, comptroller of the Presbyterian Central Receiving Agency, will report the year's gifts for benevolences as totalling $8,813,887.30, a net increase of $1,354,487.52 over the previous year.

A small admission price of twenty-five cents is asked for the contest.

Preparations for Paying Bonus Begun by Cabinet

DAY YESTERDAY

Several From Here Go

Occasion.

NEAR BEREA TODAY

Sum of $1,115 Subscribed to Buy Rock
Crusher and Grader to Hasten the Conditioning of Road.

Nearly 500 men from California to North Carolina joined in the road working near Dishman Springs yesterday and improved a considerable stretch of road. The sum of $1,115 was made up in cash for the purpose of buying a rock crusher and grader to further continue the work.

The Middlesboro Kiwanis club gave $25 toward this fund, the few members who were there assuming the obligation for the organization, Western North Carolina gave $100, C. R. Ramsey of the Great Southern Refining company gave $100 and the Barbourville and Pineville Kiwanis clubs made liberal donations. The auto leaders of these towns made substantial donations for the cause as did many individuals.

The men were divided into two crews, each working on a bad stretch of road. The local men were in the crew which worked one mile below Dishman Springs, seven miles from Barbourville. The work started at 8 o'clock and continued until noon at which time luncheon was served the workers at the Dishman Springs hotel by the women of Barbourville. Band music was furnished while the luncheon was in progress.

C. A. Blackburn, president of the Middlesboro Kiwanis club, R. B. Gibson, Dr. T. T. Gibson and D. S. Hudson were the local men who aided in the work. A number of distinguished men and road promoters from North Carolina were present and William Hatch of Paris, who came from New York to that place for the promotion of good roads, took part in the work.

More than a score of men from the Lexington Board of Commerce, Kiwanis club, Optimist club and Lexington Automobile club left this morning, as Lexington's delegation, to work on the Scaffold Cane hill section of the Dixie highway, in Rockcastle county, four miles south of Berea.

Cars were furnished to take all Lexington citizens, who desire to work the roads, to the scene of their labor, but all are expected to turn in a good day's work to pay for their transportation and dinner.

Nearly 2,000 people were expected to be present to assist in putting the road into condition for the large number of north and south bound tourists, who depend on the Dixie highway as the main artery of automobile transportation, according to R. B. Hayes, chairman of the Lexington Dixie committee.

Mr. Hayes went for Pineville to accompany a delegation back over the road to Roundstone, Ky., where the mile of road is expected to be built. He will represent the Lexington Automobile club.

COAL SURPLUS IS DIMINISHING

Revival of Domestic Business Will Follow, Local Man Believes.

Revival of the domestic coal business in this field is expected when the large surplus of soft coal now on hand throughout the country becomes lower.

W. E. Gunn, local operator who is well informed on the coal situation, states that on April 1 there was a surplus of 75,000,000 tons of coal in the United States. This amount, more than twice the normal excess, was caused by large users who expected a strike and stocked their bins for the possible emergency.

With 4,000,000 tons more of coal being used weekly now than is produced, he says that he expects the surplus soon to be consumed and more large orders placed.

Thousands of War De- partment Records to Search.

READY FOR WORK

Preparations Made to Handle Clerical
Work — Will Require About
Nine Months Preliminary Work.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 20.—Steps for carrying out the provisions of the soldier bonus act were considered at today's cabinet meeting. Secretary Weeks reported that it would be necessary to add about 2,000 employees to his department immediately and that others would be added later.

Preparations for the distribution of millions of application blanks throughout the country have already begun. It is planned to send out first those for remote parts of the country. Meanwhile, the veteran may determine the amount of his bonus this way: Figure out the number of days' service. For each day of home service above the first sixty days, one dollar will be allowed in adjusted service credit and for each day of overseas service above sixty days a dollar and a quarter will be given. If this adjusted service does not amount to more than fifty dollars, it will be paid in cash; otherwise an insurance policy will be given. The approximate value of this policy may be determined by adding twenty-five per cent to the amount of credit and multiplying the total by two and one-half.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Enactment of the war veteran bonus bill into law yesterday by a Senate vote of 69 to 26, has laid upon the shoulders of the government departments and administrative task so huge that the figures involved stagger the imagination.

They must explore a veritable mountain of war records. From that mass of musty documents they must pick out the individual war histories of more than 6,893,000 men to provide the data upon which alone bonus payments of any kind can be made.

The daily service of every soldier, sailor or marine who served under the flag in the Great War at home or abroad, is subject now to minute examination. Through his days of sickness and health, of training at home or battle abroad, the searchers must follow each man through the wilderness of official records.

In those records alone are more than 167,000,000 separate documents, each of which it may be necessary to handle many times before the veterans can all be assured of bonus payments. It will require 27 separate checking operations to make the examination of the files and it will take 2,800 clerks to do the work in the War Department alone.

There are amazing stories by the hundreds of thousands among these individual war records. There are tales of highest heroism, of great adventure; tales, too, rich in pathos and sacrifice. They are the war story of each one of the millions of men gathered into the vast volume of the files that must now be opened for perusal. Among them are the brief records of the many who were called for service but to whom death came in the hospitals almost before they had taken their soldierly oaths.

By comparison the Army's share in the task of record searching over shadows the work that must also be done by the Navy and Marine Corps to carry out the will of Congress. In the Army files are the records of 5,250,000 men who may make claims. Each must be examined as to the soldier's record before it can be passed upon.

The documents grouped in their enveloped jackets are now set in solidly ranks in 7,066 steel filing cases that placed end to end would cover more than five miles. They occupy 2.36 acres of floor space and they weigh 1,080 tons and would fill 54 freight cars.

The War Department, and in cooperation with it, the other two military services, began preparatory work more than two years ago to make ready for the day when bonus legislation might be enacted. At that time Colonel Robert C. Davis, then commanding a regiment of Infantry at Plattsburg, N. Y. barracks, was summoned to Washington to begin a study that has resulted in the completion of plans for the organization of the War Department's record files. (Continued on next page.)

CONDITION OF EAST END DETOUR

There have recently come to our ears complaints of several East End residents who insist that, if the city is going to shut them off from the world again for an indefinite length of time, they should at least be assured a passable road into town.

The East End detour is quite passable now for light vehicles, but a heavy rain such as we are very likely to have any day during this season, would make this road, in several places, almost entirely impassable. It is of this that these residents are thinking, and rightly so.

The suggestion has been made that the slag be taken from the corner of Fitzpatrick and Cumberland, or any place else in town where there is a surplus amount, that the city haul it to the bad spots in the detour and that the city prisoners be used to spread it on. In this way these places could be filled up quickly at small expense.

Although the construction company planned to finish the Avenue in about two weeks, there are many things which might delay them, particularly bad weather. During this time the people who live there are entirely cut off, the stores get no trade from the country and, if the detour is bad, the people who own cars and drive to work in other parts of town are greatly inconvenienced.

Besides, the residents of Tennessee and Virginia who are accustomed to come to Middlesboro to trade are kept out of town when the road is in bad condition and the merchants lose correspondingly.

We believe this is a matter the city government should take up and act on immediately. Their purpose is to serve all of the citizens to the best of their ability and here is certainly a place to serve.

"SURE NUFF" OLD KENTUCKY NEWS

Somebody has been digging around in the files of old newspapers and found a copy in which appeared the notice of a land and personal property sale for March 1, 1819. The notice of the sale, which was reproduced last week in both the Beattyville Enterprise and Richmond Register, describes a tract of land which has since become one of the valuable farms of the Blue Grass. The owner had decided to sell out and go West, so the advertisement was inserted in the newspapers of some of the neighboring towns. The clippings which we have seen say the notice of the sale appeared both in the Anderson News and Prophetown Echo during the first weeks of 1819. The notice said:

"Having sold my farm and am leaving for Oregon territory by ox team, will offer on March 1st, 1819, all of my personal property, to-wit:

"All ox teams, except 2 teams, Buck and Ben and Tom and Jerry; 2 milch cows; 1 grey mare and colt; 1 pair of oxen and yoke; 1 baby yoke; 2 ox carts; 1 iron plow with wood mole board; 300 feet of poplar weather boards; 1,000 three-foot clapboards; 1,500 ten-foot fence rails; 1 60-gallon soap kettle; 85 sugar troughs, made of white ash timber; 10 gallons of maple syrup; 2 spinning wheels; 80 pounds of mutton tallow; 20 pounds of beef tallow; 1 large loom made by Jerry Wilson; 300 poles; 100 split hoops; 100 empty barrels; one 32-gallon barrel of Johnson-Miller whiskey, 7 years old; 20 gallons of apple brandy; 1 40-gallon copper still;

KILLING IN PERRY

(Anonymous)
What I cum from in Perry county,
Its orful low to tell a lie;
Why, they almost gve a bounty—
Like fer pole-cats runnin high.

As fer breaking up a hum,
Now, that jest downright mean;
Cause you know thar aint no fun
In hidin till you're sick and lean

An' a man what makes mean likker
Is wu-ven a breaker an a liar;
Aint no sense in gettin' sicker
An madden a house on fire.

An' the dirtiest critter God has made,
The one I'd kill right off the real,
The one what sits the others in the shade,
Is the low-down cuss what has to steal.

What's that? Kill? Now yes,
Why, up whar I cum from
All the head'n folks and best,
Hiss killed at least one!

Ain't nothin' wrong in killin',
So long as you think you're right;
Besides, the juries are willin'
To always to treat you white.

No use ter feel the way you feel
And hold your hand in horror;
Ruthern he or sneak or steal,
I'd kill a dozen men termotter.

Now them's my honest sentiments,
Bein' free and white and over 21;
Fact is, thats what eve'body thinks
In Perry county, whar I'm from.

INDIANS PREFER RED

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The red man's fondness for gaudy colors has long been known but it has remained for Dr. T. R. Garth, of the University of Denver, to ascertain their color preferences. Full blood Indians were found to prefer red to all other colors; then blue, violet, yellow and white in the order named. White men preferred blue, then green and then red.

English And American Tastes In Books Differ

Offering prizes to a certain tendency in popular reading, has become prevalent with some magazines. The London Bookman recently held a contest for the best list of eight novels by living authors representing what is best in present-day English fiction. The prize-winning list was as follows:

Tess of the D'Urbervilles by Thomas Hardy.
Old Wives Tale by Arnold Bennett.
Tono-Bungay by H. G. Wells.
Forsyte Saga by John Galsworthy.
Kim by Rudyard Kipling.

If Winter Comes by A. S. M. Hutchinson.

Lord Jim by Joseph Conrad.

While in the United States a recent poll was taken by the International Book Review to determine what its readers consider the best ten books published since 1900. The books receiving the highest vote are not all fiction, but it is interesting to compare them with the English list. It is as follows:

The Outline of History by H. G. Wells.

Four Hor-cemen of the Apocalypse by Blasco Ibanez.

If Winter Comes by A. S. M. Hutchinson.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton
THE QUEEN AND THE CHESHIRE CAT

Three Gardeners were trying to paint some roses

THE Twins loved a story, so the next day Mister Muggs took them to see Alice again and to hear more about her adventures the time she went to Wonderland by way of the rabbit hole.

"After you left the tea party, where did you go?" asked Nick, when they were all seated in the orchard, and Alice and Nancy had started to make daisy chains.

"Oh, dear, dear! That was funny," laughed Alice. "I went to the palace of the King and Queen of Hearts. They were made of cards and all their servants were cards. It was very amusing. And three gardeners were trying to paint some roses on a rose-bush red, because they had made a mistake and planted white ones against the queen's orders.

"When the queen saw it she cried, 'Off with their heads!' but I hid all of the gardeners in a flower pot, so they were safe."

"It must have been a queer place! Was the queen nice to you?" asked Nick.

"Sort of," sighed Alice. She asked me a silly question and when I said 'How should I know?' she cried 'Off with her head!' It seemed to be the only thing she knew."

"I don't call that polite," remarked Nancy. "And did they?"

"See for yourself!" said Alice, wagging her head hard. "I said 'Nonsense' quite firmly, and it silenced her. Not another word did the queen say about it. Before she knew it she was asked to play croquet. Do you know how?"

"Oh yes!" said Nick. "We have a set wooden balls through wire arches with long wooden mallets. It's loads of fun!"

"This was a far different game," said Alice, "although it was the same thing. Our balls were hedgehogs and our mallets were large flamingoes. I had a dreadful time with mine, for no sooner would I get his body nicely tucked under my arm and his neck straightened out to hit the ball, when he would twist around and look at me in such a queer way I had to laugh.

"When I got things fixed up again, the hedgehog had crawled away. It was a queer game. Nobody took turns and everybody quarreled. The queen kept saying 'Off with his head' or 'Off with her head' at a dreadful rate. I really grew alarmed. So I wandered away and came across the Cheshire Cat. He was just a head, you know, and grinned all the time. . . .

"How do you like the queen?" asked the Cheshire Cat. I waited until his ears appeared before I answered, for he wasn't quite complete. He had a habit of appearing and disappearing that was most surprising.

"Not a bit," I answered. She is so— But I saw that the queen was listening. 'Likely to win,' I went on, although that wasn't exactly what I had intended to say at all!

"That's a good girl," said the queen, and gave me a pat. Wonderland was a great place and I enjoyed it. I should like to go back."

"That was a fine story and we're ever so much obliged," said Mister Muggs. "Say goodby, children, and come along. We must be going."

"Goodby," said Alice. "I hope you go to Wonderland some day."

Romance Lies Behind Winning of Derby By Black Gold

Associated Press.
ULSA, Okla., May 20.—A domestic of "brush track" racing lay behind the brilliant victory in the Fifth Kentucky Derby, Saturday, of Black Gold, the gallant colt that brought glory to the West and his owner, Mrs. R. M. Hoots, of Tulsa, the second woman to send a colt by winner to the post.

It was back in 1910 or 1911 that Hoots bought the swift mother of Black Gold, Useit, from John Kildle, during a race meeting at the old fair grounds half-mile course in Tulsa. Out here in the "bushes" Hoots some fifteen years ago, told them to the races here.

Almost As Essential As Your Range

In preparing summer meals an Ice Cream Freezer is almost as essential as your kitchen range.

Its cold delicacies restore lost appetites in hot weather.

Summer fruits lose much of their tempting quality, in hot pies and puddings. How much more they are refreshed in ice creams, ices, sherbets, or as frozen puddings.

Ice cream costs no more than ordinary pies and puddings and is much more healthful.

Let a White Mountain Freezer help make your summer menus more attractive. It freezes cream to a velvety smoothness in ten minutes—cream that's much better than the kind you buy. And the Missus says the freezer is as easy to keep clean as a china dish.

We have the White Mountain in the size for your family. May we show you how simply and easily it operates?

Sizes—2-qt., 3-qt., 4-qt., 6-qt., 8-qt.

The Able McLaughlins Winner Pulitzer Prize for Best Novel

NEW YORK, May 10.—President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University has announced the awards of the several Pulitzer prizes and travelling scholarships for 1924 made by the advisory board of the school of journalism.

A gold medal for "the most distinguished and meritorious public service" rendered by an American newspaper during the year was awarded to the New York World in connection with the "exposure of the Florida peonage evil."

The Boston Herald's editorial article, "Who Made Coolidge?" written by Frank W. Buxton, managing editor of the paper, was selected as the work "which showed the greatest 'clearness of style,' moral purpose, sound reasoning and power to influence public opinion in the right directions. Prize was $500.

In addition a special prize of $1,000 was given to the widow of the late Frank I. Cobb, of the New York World, in recognition of the "distinction and influence of her husband's editorial writing and service."

Magner White's story of an eclipse of the sun, published in the San Diego Sun, San Diego, Calif., was chosen as mile and five furlongs dashes. Hoots raced her in Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Muskogee for two or three years and she gained a great local following.

Useit had been the pride and joy of Al Hoots until he died in 1919. Mrs. Hoots kept the mare. Three years ago, Useit brought the now renowned Black Gold into being with Black Toney, a famous Kentucky thoroughbred, as the sire. It always had been Hoots' ambition to send a colt into the Derby and as Black Gold was eligible, Mrs. Hoots decided to give him his chance.

But for the fact that she was attached to Useit, and that her husband had been anxious to see what a colt of Useit could do in the Derby, Mrs. Hoots probably would have given up all connection with racing when Al Hoots died.

Mrs. Hoots' parents were pioneers in this section. Her father was Augustus Captain, who was half French and half Osage Indian. Mrs. Hoots' mother lived in Tulsa during the latter years of her life and was said to own more than ten thousand head of cattle at one time. Mrs. Hoots' father died in 1915 and her mother in 1919.

Mrs. Hoots and her two children, a son and daughter, own 1,920 acres of Osage Indian land, 660 acres of which comprises a big ranch near Skiatook, Okla. In addition to the money Black Gold brings into her, she also receives some $12,000 a year from the government as an Osage Indian.

Car Wrecked Trying To Avoid Collision

Efforts to avoid a collision on the Pineville road near Alvarado yesterday afternoon resulted in the wreck of Dock Cross' car. Mrs. Cross who was riding in the car sustained an injured nose when it struck the broken windshield.

When Mr. Cross prevented the collision with another car by driving his auto to the edge of the road it went the best example of a reporter's work during the year, the test being strict accuracy, terseness and the accomplishment of some public good. The prize was $1,000.

For the original American play most representative of the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standard of good morals, good taste and good manners, $1,000 to "Hell-bent for Heaven" by Hatcher Hughes.

clerical machinery it now becomes his duty to set in motion as he is now Adjutant General of the Army.

The starting point for every veteran in seeking compensation must be the filling out of application blanks already printed. It is here that General Davis fears there may be delay and to reduce that danger as much as possible, he has not only revised the form time and again to reduce it to the simplest possible terms, but has called to his aid the American Legion, patriotic and civic organizations and every ramifying agency of the Federal government over the country to distribute the blanks and to help the veterans fill them in.

"Do not pay fees other than a notary charge," runs the language of an emphatic notice which will be circulated everywhere. "The law prohibits any persons from charging a fee for assistance in the collection of the compensation."

Legion posts everywhere have agreed to serve not only Legion members but all war veterans in filling out the blanks. In the same way every army post or detachment, every national guard center, and every official of the federal government, of whatever kind will give voluntary aid to the veterans as they need it.

General Davis has laid down one other rigid rule. Applications for blanks will not be received by the War Department directly from the veterans. There will be no necessity for that as the blanks and the envelopes in which to mail them will be made available everywhere and correspondence direct with the department would crush it under the load of clerical work before it could even begin on its real task.

General Davis estimates that with the system he has mapped out it will be possible to attain an average output of 30,000 certificates, checked and delivered to the Veterans' Bureau, every day for six days of every week which means about ten months of work. In order to reach that average, however, the system devised has been made sufficiently flexible to reach a daily total output of 70,000 certificates as a peak load in the full stress of the work.

The product of all this vast clerical labor will be the typed certificates forwarded to the Veterans' Bureau containing the records of each man's service and the computation of the exact amount of compensation to the checks for cash payments and the which he is entitled under the law. It insurance policies will be filled out by is from the War Department, Navy the Veterans' Bureau and mailed to and Marine Corps certificates that applicants.
